

Authentic Szechuan Noodles and Street Food

How it all began.....

I grew up in a small town in Sichuan, a province in the heart of China renowned for the Szechuan pepper-corn - an unique ingredient widely used in Szechuan cuisine.

I recall during my childhood, my mother and I often visited a noodle bar located at the end of an alleyway. They had a signature dish, 'noodle and steamed beef in bamboo' which was my favourite of all time. The spicy and numbing dishes were so delicious and mouth-watering. We also enjoyed the incredible variety of street food, from the chilling iced jelly, to the flaming hotpot skewers. There were just too many sweet memories that paint a vivid picture of the taste of my hometown.

Since I moved to Manchester, I have been cooking these dishes at home, sharing the food of my childhood with families and friends. Nothing brings me more joy than looking at the happy faces when they are trying these food. Now, I am very honoured to have the opportunity to share some of my favourite dishes from my hometown with you. I truly hope you enjoy the taste of original Szechuan flavour crafted using authentic Szechuan ingredients.

Don't forget to share your personal favourites.....

Apologies if you don't find some of your familiar Chinese Dishes in our menu as we are specifically proud to serve only authentic Sichuan cuisine here.

Originated from the Sichuan Province in southwestern China, Sichuan cuisine is celebrated for its bold, complex flavours and liberal use of spices. Renowned for its hot and numbing sensation, Sichuan dishes frequently feature Sichuan peppercorns, which create a unique tingling effect on the tongue. This cuisine is a harmonious blend of spiciness, sourness, sweetness, and saltiness, all skillfully balanced to create unforgettable tastes.

Allergy Information

Due to the very nature of Szechuan food, sesame and peanuts are prevalent in our kitchens and we cannot guarantee that our dishes are without them completely. Whilst we try our best to ensure your food is suitable for you, our kitchens are busy places and our dishes are prepared and cooked in areas in which allergenic ingredients are present and there is therefore a risk of cross contamination. Please speak to a member of our team before ordering.
