MIZUNARA

With enticing aromas of sandalwood and notes of fresh peaches and cream and a whisper of coconut, the Mizunara Rare Cask showcases the exquisite complexity and depth of flavours imparted by Mizunara oak.

Mizunara is a prized oak often requiring centuries of growth before becoming mature enough to harvest. Fiercely protected, Mizunara oak trees are forbidden to be felled before the age of eighty. The wood itself is markedly porous, requiring deft craftsmanship to cooper into barrels for maturing whisky.

RARE & REMARKABLE

Exclusive bottlings of some of the rarest casks, perfect for the collector

1911 PARA VINTAGE TAWNY CASK

This exceptional Single Malt Whisky is finished in a single barrel that recently held Centennial Collection Tawny, preserving a precious parcel from the 1911 vintage.

The result is a rich and complex whisky that dances on the senses. From toffee and aged oak combined with fresh floral pear and a touch of chocolate orange on the nose, to rich fruit cake and caramel, with hints of blackcurrant and developing lychee on the palate.

The historic Seppeltsfield Winery Centennial Cellar, known as the 'jewel in the crown' has nurtured these barrels since Oscar Benno Seppelt first conceived them in 1878, making this the longest unbroken line of single vintage wines in the world. There has been a barrel laid down every year ever since, just as this whisky has been designed, to be cherished for years to come.

This classic Tasmanian gin is rich in character thanks to fresh makrut lime leaves, dry lemon peel and delicate notes of select herbs and spices fortified to tantalise and linger, rather than overbear.

CITRUS & PEPPERBERRY	7	12	80

Invigorating notes of tangerine and orange ignite the senses and complement the pepperberry while letting just the right amount of sweetness and zing shine on through.

BUSH HONEY	7	12	80

What could make a gin more wonderfully Tasmanian than the inclusion of bush honey? We reckon Rooibos tea should do it – a wild yet mild herbal tea with plenty of flavour.
